San Juan Island Once More It will be seen by a dispatch from New York, dated the 23rd instant, that a special dispatch from London had been received, to the effect that the written judgment in the San Juan arbitration is so far completed that only the Emperor's signature is required to settle the whole matter. According to the dispatch in question the decision is in favor of the United States, by making the Canal de Haro the boundary. It is quite possible there is some truth in the statement that the Emperor William is of opinion that by the terms of the treaty defining the boundary between the two countries, the De Haro Channel, and not the Rosario, is the one that constitutes the boundary in question, and that by that decision San Juan becomes United States territory. Should such turn out to be the case, it will matter very little indeed to Great Britain, but to this Province it will be a very great loss indeed. We do not, however, put very much faith in the dispatch, for it entitled to fall credence. It appears that the Emperor has not yet signed the document, and we presume he has good and sufficient reasons for not doing so. Our American friends, in their eager haste to have the question settled, and settled in their favor, are ill-pleased that Kaiser William should besitate for a moment to fix his sign-manual to the judgment, and attribute his not doing so to Euglish diplomatic intrigue, with a view to delay the judgment and defeat the arbitration altogether. There is William is not such a pliable specimen of bumanity, that he can be influenced one way or another, by either results of the can be influenced one dispute; and if he sees proper to withhold his signature, it will certainly be for some better reason than that attributed PUBLIC AUCTION to him by sensational writers for the American press. The English Govern ment is just as desirous of procuring a final and praceable settlement of this long standing dispute as the Americans are, and it was for the accomplishment of this purpose that it was agreed on their part to refer the subject to the Emperor of Germany, as an honorable and disjuterested party, to adjudica's upon it and give a true verdict according to the evidence, without fear, favor or affection for one party or the other. Having agreed say John Bull is too much of a gentleman to back out of his agreement, or seek to defeat the judgment of the arbitrator through diplomatic intrigue, or in any o her way. Hence the story about enlisting the services of the Crown Princess Victoria to assist those engaged in the intrigue is no doubt a pure invention.
The British Government have, throughont the whole controversy, maintain d that the Rosario channel was the one referred to in the trenty of 1846, and ensubstantiate their claim by the mo-t irrefragable documentary evidence. That evidence has been laid before the Emperor, and we have no doubt he has examined it with all the care and attention case put before him by the Government of the United States, he has given judgment in favor of the latter, it will we feel assured, he accepted by the Government of Great Britain as final and conclusive, and the islands be given up quietly and peaceably to the United States. The British press will, most likely express a great deal of dissa isfac tion at the result of the arbitration, and those opposed to the Gladstone ministry will make what use they can of the cir-cumstance to injure them in the estima-tion of the British public; but as usual on such occasions, after public sentiment has had a chance to effervesce, the matter will be permitted to settle down and constitute another page in the long list of incidents which go to history. We regret that we have lost San Juan, if it be a fact that we have lost it, and we fear it is but too true; but on the other hand we are exceedingly well pleased that that old bone of con tention has been swept out of the way, and that the question has been peaceably and honorably disposed of. The day was when this San Juan dispute could only have been settled by force of arms—when thousands of lives and millions of treasure would have been wasted over that comparatively valueless piece of territory—when pride and passion ruled in the councils of the nations, instead of reason and justice. But we live in a One second hand Lumber Wagon, hetter time, in a wiser age.
